

Noting with satisfaction that all the amendments to the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution of the Sea by Oil, adopted by the 1962 Conference, have now come into force,

Mindful of the serious consequences of pollution of the sea by oil,

Bearing in mind the desirability of as many States as possible accepting the said Convention,

Recommends that all governments which have not yet accepted the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution of the Sea by Oil, 1954, as amended in 1962, give urgent consideration to so doing.
